CIRCULATING THROUGHOUT THE VAST AGRICULTURAL AREA OF PALM BEACH COUNTY

Words Sizzle As Jupiter Fusses About Negro Beach

A sizzling verbal battle stemming from establishment of a county Negro beach near Jupiter ended Monday in plans for negotiations over another Jupiter beach tract between county and Jupiter officials. Hisses from Jupiter sympathizers in the audience punctuated the argument at the county commission meeting.

Upshot was a vote of the commission under which committees representing the county and the town of Jupiter will try to reach a written agreement for Jupiter to operate—for public park purposes another Jupiter tract fronting the ocean and consisting of 27 acres.

The county has been trying to get the 27 acres from the federal government. A Jupiter delegation headed by Mayor W. R. Albright Monday asked the county commission to cease such efforts. Mayor Albright declared "the people are scared to death that what happened before (establishment of the Negro beach) will happen there. We understand you're trying to use our end of the county for a dumping ground" . . . If you develop that the way you have the other, Jupiter won't have enough beach."

Albright objected also that the commission had given Negro American Legion Post 199 here a concession at the new Negro beach for a July 4 outing. He said the commission had turned down an application of Jupiter's white Legion auxiliary for the same privilege. Albright said his townsmen had used the beach, now designated for Negroes, for July 4 outings since 1900.

Commission Chairman Lake Lytal argued back that the Negro beach had been private property in those days and that the Negro Legionnaires had asked for the concession first. "The town of Jupiter owns its own beaches," Lytal declared. "And the only thing you ever did with 'em was to lease 'em out to a juke joint. And the income was to go for recreation purposes and didn't."

The 27-acre tract, if the county gets it from the federal government, will not be used for Negroes said County Commissioner John Prince. He said the county was interested in picking up beach properties wherever it could get them at little or no cost, for future park purposes.

"If we don't," he said, "the time's coming when it's all going to be

Rev. Todd Talks To Pahokee Lions Club

Rev. Ralph W. Todd, new pastor of the Pahokee First Methodist Church, who served as chaplain in the U. S. Navy during World War II, was guest speaker at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Pahokee Lions Club. Introduced by Frank Rozelle, program chairman, Rev. Todd gave a talk on "The Life of a Navy Chaplain" in which he related some of his experience as chaplain in the North Africa theatre of war. Richard L. Brooks, vice president, presided at the meeting.

21 In State To Die Over The Week End

Twenty-one people who are looking forward this morning to the pleasures of the Fourth of July weekend will be dead Monday night as a result of accidents, if the state's usual average for a three day holiday is maintained. The figures came from Asher Frank, Director of the Florida Safety Council. Eleven will be killed in traffic, along with 400 others injured. Six will drown. Four will succumb to the effects of over-exertion.

Will you be one of them? It's a grim notion, but worth thinking about. The tragedy of the holiday accident toll is that practically all of it is due to plain carelessness and can be prevented. It cannot be prevented by authorities handing out tickets, it seems, nor by the thousands of words that newspapers devote to the subject. It can be prevented only if every person who gets behind the wheel makes a conscious effort to drive with care and watch out for the other fellow who may not.

Other holiday accidents can be prevented if every man, woman or child who goes swimming or engages in unusually strenuous play observes the simple, common-sense rules of safety. One is not to swim too far out and it applies to good swimmers as well as poor ones, nor to swim all alone. Grown-ups who should know better are prone to these accidents. Children need special guidance from their parents for accidents kill more children than any disease—one out of every three children who die each year is killed in an accident.

Secretary Percy Teeters said yesterday that plans have been completed for a chicken supper tonight (Friday) at the Union Hall on Barfield Highway. All wives of members of the carpenters union are urged to be present as an effort will be made to organize an auxiliary after the supper is over.

privately owned and there won't be any beach for poor folks."

Lytal told the Jupiter folk that, if they were going to sue the county to try to prevent operation of that beach for Negroes, as they have threatened, they'd better start and get it over with.

"The suit will go ahead just as fast as court will allow," Mayor Albright assured him.

Wettest June In 27 Years, Canal Point

Not since records have been kept—starting in 1922—have we had as much rain in the month of June as we had in 1949. Total rainfall in Canal Point for the month was 20.33 inches. The most on record for any June before was 16.96 in the good year 1930.

Several hard showers have fallen during the month of June. One day we had 2.37 inches, another 3.79 inches and still another saw 4.87 inches fall. Old timers are hard to argue with, and some defy the records in regard to June rainfall, but the record speaks for itself. It has been the wettest June in 27 years.

Bollinger Says No New Taxes Needed If State Exercises Frontier Frugality

The Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday adopted a resolution calling for economy in State government after Rep. John Bollinger asserted operation of all necessary State department is possible the next two years without resorting to a special session to aise additional taxes "provided the State budget committee exercises a reasonable policy of frontier frugality."

Rep. Bollinger, a member of the House finance committee, said the State will end its fiscal year at the close of June with "from $4,000,000 to $10,000,000 surplus, and that "all old taxes were reenacted additional levies which will raise an estimated $3,500,000 a year were enacted."

These funds, believed to be sufficient to carry State government along without a need for additional taxes sources and without need for a special session, will more than suffice if the budget committee will, according to one of its powers, eliminate unnecessary State agencies and apply the monies to those departments whose services are required, he asserted.

Needed State departments and expenditures include those of the Health Department, Board of Education and similar ones, he said.

Mr. Bollinger lashed out against what he termed two main forces which, he said, attempted to influence legislators in their taxing discussions. These constituted "State boards, bureaus, agencies" which sought additional monies for operation, and those who sought to have taxes levied on "anyone but themselves."

Conspicuously absent was representation from the taxpayer who ultimately foots the bill, the legislator stated.

He charged State agency employees dominated the legislative session in their demands for funds referred to one State group "which had so many uniforms they were conspicuous and some of them decided to change to civilian clothes."

He added, "I would like to see returned to the taxpayers some $3,000,000 spent by the State for persons who spent just about 60 days lobbying for new money that their group could spend."

Mr. Bollinger called attention to a movement by Representatives who urged economy and a minimum of new taxes, who met privately to discuss legislation and who were termed the economy bloc, he said.

He appealed to the Jaycees and other taxpayers for direction in taxation in event of a special session but held strongly "there will be no need for another session if the budget committee lays off about 500 State workers, eliminates those services that are unnecessary to the State and operates with reasonable frontier frugality."—Palm Beach Post.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

(By Russell Kay)

In the current issue of the Southern Lumber Journal, Richard E. Wand recalls the day he first went on the road for the publication in the early months of 1932. That was the frightful period in the nation's history that politicos refer to as the "Hoover Depression."

"Things were tough all over," he states, "and the lumbermen I visited were greatly concerned about the future, just as they are today. But There Was A Difference."

"The only worry we had 17 years ago was how to get our hands on enough money to feed and house and clothe our families. A problem that has been faced by every generation since the beginning of the human race, one the American people knew would be solved with a little faith and a lot of hard work. Matters were not complicated by too much government, too many pressure groups, too many fellow travelers trying to sell us a bill of goods."

"So even though we were all broke, we still retained a healthy sense of humor and a spirit of optimism that refused to be licked. When I called on a business friend I knew he would have a ready smile for me and even though we might not transact any business, we would enjoy our visit. Looking back to those days, life was simple in comparison to the vast confusion of 1932."

"I truly found great pleasure and satisfaction in swinging through the Southeastern states and swapping gripes with our millmen, wholesalers and retailers."

"And what of today? Before I hit the road I have a mental picture of what I will find at most of my stops. I will talk with men who are harassed and grim. Men who are faced with a tax burden that takes the heart right out of them. Men who are confused by the attitude of those working for them, employees who have been caught up in the fever of the day and expect two days' wages for a half a day's work."

"I will talk with men who wonder if it is worth the effort to continue operating their business in the face of a government that appears to be bent on destroying private enterprise and personal initiative."

"Some of them will have sons who will graduate from college this month and are ready to enter the business world. They will be worried about the theories those boys have picked up during their four years' association with other young men who subscribe to the doctrine that the government will provide for all their needs."

The picture of comparison that Mr. Wand draws in his able editorial is not farfetched or overdrawn. It applies to business men in all walks of life, not to lumbermen alone. It was back in 1932 that the America, we of this older generation knew and loved and respected, had that attained its greatness through the courage, faith and effort of its people as individuals, turned from the principles of its founding fathers to pursue will-of-the-wisp fantasies, sacrificing one by one those individual liberties and resources that for 100 years had been the foundation stones of its growth and greatness.

New ideas and new doctrines replaced the old. Government encroached more and more upon the lives of business and individual. Governmental costs mounted with the establishment of alphabetical agencies, boards, commissions and controls.

Free enterprise, independent thought and action, frugality, economy, hard work and personal responsibility were frowned upon. It became the job of government to provide for the wants of its citizens whether or not Worthy and unworthy alike. The indifferent, lazy, indolent and irresponsible among us were encouraged and abetted.

This vast program of waste and extravagance swept the nation. It infected every form of government from the tiniest hamlet to the nation's capitol. While honest hard working citizens struggled to make both ends meet, government went on a taxing and spending spree the like of which the world had never seen. No program or project was too costly. Congress quit thinking in terms of millions and turned to billions. The national debt became a laugh. It didn't mean anything anyhow because we owed it to ourselves.

It has been a grand and glorious joyride. But we are beginning to run out of gas. Taxpayers who have been carrying the load are beginning to falter. They stumble and fall. In the meantime we continue to tax and spend, tax and spend and the end is not in sight. It might be a good time for the people to stop and check their bank balance, count the change in their pockets and check the road signs, but they are so confused and bewildered they have reached a point where they find thinking for themselves too burdensome an effort. Maybe there's an answer, but I can't find it in my book.

When I saw lights burning in the High School auditorium last night, I looked in to see what went on. About twenty people were listening to Buzz Ellis, the electrician, talk about television.

I slipped into a back seat and asked Hap Thomas what was up. Hap told me it was the new Self-Improvement Club. I stayed to listen—and learned a lot. Buzz really knows his stuff.

Turns out this club meets every Friday night. Each member gives a talk on the subject he knows most about. I joined on the spot because learning new things is one of my favorite hobbies.

From where I sit, it's willingness to learn from the other person that makes Americans tolerant towards so many different viewpoints and tastes in things. Just because Buzz Ellis goes for chocolate malteds, while I prefer a mellow glass of beer, doesn't mean I'm right and he's wrong. Incidentally, next week I'm going to talk on how to run a newspaper.

Guardsmen Number Largest in History

ST. AUGUSTINE — Military leave for training, field exercises or active state duty will be granted to all state, county and municipal employees and officers who are members of the Florida National Guard, Brig Gen. Mark W. Lance, state adjutant general, announced recently.

All Federal officers and employees already have been authorized similar leaves.

The announcement came as an interpretation of the new Florida Military Code by Richard W. Ervin, attorney general. He said, "The plain interpretation of the language of the section imposes upon the administrative officers of governmental agencies by which a member of the national guard is employed, the imperative duty to grant leave of absence under the circumstances recited in the statute."

"The use of the words 'shall be entitled to leave of absence' may not be construed to vest such administrative officers any discretion as to whether such leave of absence shall be granted for the period of time prescribed by the act under the conditions fixed."

The code authorizes up to 17 days at any one time for members of the Florida National Guard to participate in active state duty, field exercises or other training without loss of pay, time or efficiency rating.

The Florida National Guard, with the cooperation of the federal and state government, now is assured of its largest summer field training program in the history of the state. It is expected that more than 4,500 guardsmen from Florida will participate in the training program in July and August.

Miss Hammond Weds John C. Hatton

Miss Lillian Hammond, daughter of Mrs. Mary Hammond of Pahokee, became the bride of John Crippen Hatton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hatton, Sr., also of Pahokee, at a ceremony held in the Pahokee First Baptist Church at high noon Sunday, June 26, with Rev. Hoke H. Shirley, pastor of the church, officiating.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Joyce Fields, vocal soloist, who sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. C. Graham who also played the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her cousin, George Johnson, the bride wore a white shadow organza dress and white picture hat. She carried a white prayer book centered with blue iris.

Miss Barbara Jenkins, maid of honor, chose a pink shadow organdie dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Ray Hatton served as his brother's best man. Eddie Stanley, cousin of the bridegroom and Tom Boaland acted as ushers.

Following a wedding trip along the East Coast Mr. and Mrs. Hatton will make their home in West Palm Beach where he is employed.

Vacation School Ends In Pahokee

The two weeks' vacation Bible school at the Pahokee First Baptist Church closed with commencement exercises held in the Fellowship Hall Sunday evening.

Each of the four departments of the school took part in the special program and an exhibit of the students' woodcraft and art work was on display in the educational building next door. The school's faculty of 35 was headed by Rev. Hoke H. Shirley, principal.

Greyhound Lines Introduce New Bus

CHICAGO — The Scenicruiser, a revolutionary type of motor bus which will set standards of luxury in highway travel never before realized, began test runs here today for the Greyhound Lines.

In designing the sleek 43-passenger coach, Greyhound engineers have achieved immensely greater visibility, smoother riding and more seating comfort than has ever been enjoyed by highway bus passengers.

One of the most striking innovations in the design of the bus is that the passengers in the rear compartment are seated in a raised dome with a wide windshield curved around the entire forward section to give an unobstructed view of the road ahead.

Big total-vision, glare-resistant windows, which comprise more than 90 per cent of the side structure of the Scenicruiser above the seat levels, provide a degree of visibility from all angles heretofore unknown in bus travel. The windows are double glazed of safety glass and incorporate a completely new idea in glare-reducing treatment, especially developed for Greyhound, which does not interfere in any way with clear vision. Although all passengers ride above the traffic level of passing cars, the overall height of the Scenicruiser is less than a foot more than the conventional highway bus and well within prescribed height limitations.

Fireworks are still a hazard to life and property, the National Board of Fire Underwriters warns in a plea for a safe and sane observance of the Fourth of July.

The State of Florida became the State of Seminole last week as girls from all over the state assembled in Tallahassee to participate in Girl's State activities.

Should Be Careful With Security Cards

Husbands who give their social security number to the boss from memory, or who fail to give it at all, are gambling with the future security of their families, if was announced today by R. C. Gehrken, Jr., manager of the West Palm Beach social security office.

Wage credits are posted to the worker's account when the correct name and number are sent in by the employer. Wages reported by name only, or by name and with a wrong number, can be credited only if contact with the employer or employee produces a correct number.

"Since future social security benefits are directly geared to wages posted to the worker's account," Mr. Gehrken said, "the worker, in his own interest and in the interest of his family, has a definite reason to see that his employer gets his name and number directly from his social security card."

Mr. Gehrken said many wives do not know that social security pays death benefits. He urged all workers to show their cards to their families and tell them to take the card to the social security office in the event of the death of the worker.

Cinematic Chatter
By Malcolm Miller

That popular radio show that has given folks so many hearty laughs, "Life of Riley", is due to be filmed at the Prince Theatre, Sunday-Monday of this week, with William Bendix, James Gleason, Meg Randall and Rosemary DeCamp in the starring roles.

There are laughs and there are tears running through the show, which unreels the trials and tribulations of a family trying to make all ends meet on a $60 salary, which is very meager at these times.

Of course Bendix gives out with his peculiar brand of comedy and his inimitable manner of delivery of his lines. In the many pieces he has been in locally we have found him to be an excellent comedian and character man. Rosemary DeCamp needs no introduction to local audiences. She has appeared here in many fine films and her performances have always been tops. Meg Randall however, is a new comer to us, but from critics throughout the land she will be found perfect in her role.

All in all, "Life of Riley" is a very fine show, built for all out laughs.

See you at the movies—Mal.

Lake Osborne Camp Pronounced Success

Lake Osborne Scout Camp has had one of the most successful seasons in years, stated Tom Kirk, chairman of the North Glades District Scouts from this district, who probably would have died had the State's death rate continued on the same level as in 1940.

According to final mortality rates figures for 1943 released today by the Florida State Board of Health, our chances of living longer continue to improve.

Deaths were fewer from nearly all the common causes of death except cancer and diabetes. Major improvement in the death rate was in pneumonia and influenza. There were 1,153 fewer deaths from those two diseases than would have occurred at the 1940 rate.

No change was listed in the relative standing of the 10 leading causes of death for 1943 as compared with 1942. These continue to be: heart disease; cancer; cerebral hemorrhage; all accidents; nephritis; pneumonia and influenza; premature birth; tuberculosis; diabetes; and diseases of the arteries.

Combined, the 10 top diseases are the cause of 78 percent of all deaths.

Cancer moved up from eighth place in 1942 to second place in 1943; heart disease from fifth to first place.

The State Board of Health is initiating a program for the control of diabetes and two years ago began a campaign against cancer.

Christian Science Society

CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"GOD" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, July 3.

The Golden Text is: "I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress: My God; in him will I trust" (Psalms 91:2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And, I hear as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunders, saying, Alleluja: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth" (Rev. 19:6).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "We lose the high significance of omnipotence, when after admitting that God, or good, is omnipresent and has all-power, we still believe there is another power, named evil" (469:25-28).

"There is no power, apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God" (228: 25-27).

Missionary Tells Of Work In Africa

DELAND — The experience of seeing a former wife of the Oba (King) of Benin, British West Africa, dance and sing a native chant of thanksgiving when approved for membership in the church was described in a letter received today at Stetson University from Heyward Adams, a Stetson alumnus now a missionary in Nigeria.

This former inmate of the King's Harem was one of 31 persons baptized in a river three miles from Ogbé Baptist Church at Benin City after the congregation marched to the riverside singing the entire distance.

The Rev. Mr. Adams wrote:

"Today, (June 12) I have had a most interesting experience which thrilled my heart. The entire church membership of Ogbé Baptist Church, Benin City, marched three miles in a body to the riverside for baptismal services. They sang to the top of their voices all the way through the city. As they marched, many townspeople joined in the procession, swelling the number to about 500. There were 31 persons who had never witnessed Christian baptism.

"One woman has formerly been one of the many wives in the Oba of Benin's compound. After his death, she became a Christian and was baptized today. When she was examined for her Christian experience and approved for church membership, she danced out of the church clapping her hands and singing a native chant of thanksgiving. My own heart was strangely stirred by the expression of joy by this former inmate of the King's Harem. Dancing is one of their means of expressing emotions."

The Rev. Mr. Adams, who came to Stetson from Fort Mills, S. C.,

carried on a program of teaching school as well as his church duties "but I manage to find time to play tennis some each week".

He is trying to get an administration building started for the elementary training center for teachers. These teachers will return to the bush (village) schools after two years training which corresponds to "about two years in our high schools in the U. S."

Nearby is the Rev. Maurice Brantley, who received his bachelors degree at Stetson in 1936 and his master's degree in 1945, and Mrs. Brantley, a former Stetson student. The Rev. Mr. Brantley is from Altoona, and he and his wife are expected in the states this fall on furlough.

Soon to join these Stetson alumni are Patrick Henry Hill, A. B. '43, and his wife, Jane Knight Hill, A. B. '43, just appointed missionaries to Nigeria.
